

FINDING JOY IN MEANINGFUL MOMENTS

A workshop for parents and caregivers of children with sensory, developmental and social needs

February 24, 2018

1:30 p.m. – 2:30 p.m. (plus time for Q&A and connecting with other parents & resources)

Schlessman YMCA Program Center

2625 S Colorado Blvd.
Denver, CO 80222

If you're a long-time caregiver of a child with sensory, developmental and social needs, you know some days can be challenging. This free one-hour workshop provides support for families by helping them use the power of play to find more joy and meaning in their interactions with their child. Participants will learn about brain function – both their own and their child's – and discover techniques for increasing and improving shared moments together.

Led by Mim Ochsenbein, Director of Education of the STAR Institute, this innovative workshop will be the first of two workshops made possible through grant funding for the YMCA Recreational Respite program from Developmental Pathways.

The workshop is free and open to the public, but space is limited. Sign up today!
Please RSVP at: www.DenverYMCA.org/workshop

BROUGHT TO YOU IN PARTNERSHIP:

FOR YOUTH DEVELOPMENT®
FOR HEALTHY LIVING
FOR SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY