LPS Foundation Spotlight November 2022

Students Become Storytellers

Jack smooths his shirt and reviews notes. Camera operator, Kaylee, focuses on Jake's face and prepares to count him down. Technical director, Savannah, brings up the graphics that will appear behind Jack. The team is ready for action! 3-2-1, and the Ford Foxes weekly newscast is live.

Jack, Kaylee, and Savannah are part of a 5th-grade leadership program at Ford Elementary School that gives them the opportunity to produce a weekly newscast. They write, build, and film the broadcast, which is shared school-wide. Students especially love seeing the Ford mascot, the Fox, doing silly or helpful things so they can learn. A grant from the LPS Foundation jumpstarted the new program, which teaches students media literacy skills, promotes civic engagement, gives students the chance to experiment with storytelling formats, and activates student voices. These essential communication skills will serve the students throughout their academic and professional lives.

A similar grant was awarded to Heritage High School teacher Brittany Markus so that she could purchase upgraded audio and visual technologies for her News Production class. Brittany shared, "the grant has made digital media production much smoother and easier. The new tools allow students to create higher-quality photographs, videos, and interviews that better reflect their intentions." Thanks to the upgraded equipment provided by LPS Foundation, students quickly build skills that lead to real career opportunities.

Foco de Atención de la Fundación de LPS Noviembre 2022

Los Estudiantes se Convierten en Narradores

Jack se arregla la camisa y revisa las notas. La camarógrafa, Kaylee, se centra en el rostro de Jake y se prepara para hacer la cuenta atrás. La directora técnica, Savannah, presenta los gráficos que aparecerán detrás de Jack. ¡El equipo está listo para la acción! 3-2-1 y el noticiero semanal de los Zorros de Ford está en vivo.

Jack, Kaylee y Savannah forman parte de un programa de liderazgo de segundo grado en la escuela primaria Ford que les da la oportunidad de producir un noticiero semanal. Escriben, construyen y filman la transmisión, que se comparte con toda la escuela. A los estudiantes les encanta especialmente ver a la mascota de Ford, el zorro, hacer cosas tontas o útiles para que puedan aprender. Una subvención de la fundación LPS puso en marcha el nuevo programa, que enseña a los estudiantes habilidades de alfabetización mediática, promueve la participación cívica, brinda a los estudiantes la oportunidad de experimentar con formatos de narración y activa las voces de los estudiantes. Estas habilidades esenciales de comunicación servirán a los estudiantes a lo largo de su vida académica y profesional.

Se otorgó una subvención similar a Brittany Markus, maestra de la Preparatoria Heritage, para que pudiera comprar tecnologías de audio y visuales mejoradas para su clase de producción de noticias. Brittany comentó que “ la subvención ha hecho que la producción de medios digitales sea mucho más fluida y sencilla. Las nuevas herramientas permiten a los estudiantes crear fotografías, videos y entrevistas de mayor calidad que reflejen mejor su intención”. Gracias al equipo mejorado proporcionado por la Fundación LPS, los estudiantes desarrollan rápidamente habilidades que conducen a oportunidades profesionales reales.
